

R.V.C. Gen. Night Career Women to Talk on Business

By Peggy Benjamin

What co-ed would turn down an opportunity to glimpse into her possible future? If none would do so, then there should be a large congregation of girls at the Gen Night coming up, just for them. This educational entertainment will be presented in the R.V.C. Gym on November 9th, at 8 p.m.

A group of women representing various careers will address the meeting, which is sponsored by the McGill Placement Service in co-operation with the Women's Section of the Placement Committee of the McGill Graduate Society. The fact that these organizations are sponsoring such a Gen Night, thereby going more than half-way to meet the girls whom they wish to help, instead of just waiting for the girls to come to them, is an indication of their positive attitude toward the work.

Bunny MacDonald, Member-at-Large of the McGill Women's Union executive, heads the student committee in charge of the Gen Night; she has been working in co-operation with Miss Rossiter of the Placement Service, to give the potential women graduates of McGill an opportunity to meet representatives of different fields of activity.

Each of the speakers is considered proficient in her work, and a good ambassador in her field. The personal qualifications, education and other training necessary for positions in the business and professional world will be discussed, together with advice on the salaries to be expected when a beginner and when more advanced. In addition, the advantages and opportunities provided by different types of work—and the obstacles likely to be met by women—will be pointed out, and information given as to where more details may be obtained.

The first number on the Gen Night program will be a Mock Interview conducted by Miss S. Nowlin of the Bell Telephone Company. Taking the part of the girl who failed to get the job will be Miss Barbara Brooks of Dominion Rubber, while the successful candidate will be played by Miss M. Landon of Sun Life.

Then Mrs. Gerry Gorham, Assistant Editor of Fashion Publications, will speak on Fashion co-ordinating. Following this, Radio and Writing will be examined as a profession by Miss Elspeth Chisholm, who is in charge of the Talks Department of C.B.C.'s International Service. Finally, Mrs. Maguire of The Katherine Gibbs Secretarial School, Boston, Mass., will elaborate on the fine points of secretarial work.

When the addresses have been heard, the meeting will take on an informal atmosphere as questions from the floor are encouraged, and the girls present are given an opportunity to meet the speakers personally.

Women Debaters To Tryout On Tuesday

There will be tryouts for all women students interested in debating this year on Tuesday, Nov. 2, from 1 to 3.30 p.m. in the Common Room of R.V.C.

Both beginners and experienced debaters should attend this meeting, as all future debaters both for home and inter-collegiate debates will be chosen from these. The topic to be discussed will be announced in Monday's Daily.

In order to make sure that everyone will have a chance to come, the president of the Women's Debating Society, Rita Weisler, will be there from 12 noon to 3.30 p.m. For further news, watch the Daily.

Halloween Dance In Union Saturday Night

Tomorrow night the Union House Committee is sponsoring another open house for interested students to celebrate Halloween. The dance will be held in the Union Ballroom, cabaret style. Elaborate decorations have already been put up to add colour and a sense of festivity to the occasion.

Stan Martin and his ten piece band will provide the music and entertainment. The members of the Cosmopolitan Club who are co-sponsoring the social event have done their utmost to assure everyone a very enjoyable night.

Winter Carnival to Hold Poster Contest

A poster contest is being sponsored by the McGill Winter Carnival. First prize of $25 will be awarded to the winner with three other awards of complete tickets to the Carnival.

The winner's poster will receive the full treatment of the printing press (i.e. it will be used).

The distinguished judges of this contest are Professor Bland of the School of Architecture, Dr. Davis of the Fine Arts Department, and a prominent Canadian artist.

All posters are to be turned in at the Union Tuck Shop. The deadline is December 1.

Liberals To Form Gov't at Mock Session

The first Model Parliament of the year will take place on Wednesday evening, November 3, in the Ballroom of the McGill Union; the McGill Liberals, under the leadership of Ted Hugessen, President of the club, will form the first Government.

The L.P.P. will form the official Opposition, and will debate a resolution relating to foreign policy. The text of the resolution to be presented is as follows:

WHEREAS the peace of the world is increasingly menaced by Communist expansion and obstructionist tactics; and WHEREAS the security and freedom of the Western nations are endangered; and WHEREAS the demonstrated solidarity of the Western powers is the only bulwark against the present perils;

THAT THIS GOVERNMENT:

1. Extend its efforts to settle the problems of the world in an effective manner through the agency of the United Nations Organization.
2. Join with the other Western powers in an Atlantic Union of free peoples, in order to promote greater military security and economic well-being.
3. Coordinate plans with these powers for mutual support in case of aggression.
4. Join forthwith in the airlift to Berlin, and in any similar operations which may subsequently become necessary.

SEC Representative To Conduct Election For SLC Leaders

Taking the view that the confused state in the Student Labor Club did not represent the best interests of the SLC or the student body, the Students Executive Council has withdrawn all rights and privileges of existing SLC executive claimants, and called for an election of officers to be supervised by representatives of the SEC.

The decision was made after testimony was heard from both groups claiming executive prerogative in the SLC.

Ken Howard, Law representative and Margaret Hurley, Music representative on the Council, were appointed to conduct the election. They will act as custodians of all assets of the club until a Treasurer has been elected.

Jack Adam and Bob Morgan, members of the executive of the SLC last year, protested to the SEC that the election held last Monday was not in order. To the SEC Jack Bowie-Reid, President of the "new" executive and Jeff Turner claimed the election valid and constitutional.

Dawson Pednault attended as a neutral.

Chemists Plan Activity for 1948-49 Term

The McGill Students Chapter of the Chemical Institute of Canada held the first meeting of the 1948-49 season this afternoon in the Chemistry Building. Mr. Havelock H. Yates was in the chair.

Dave English was elected publicity manager and it was decided that the election for the position of vice-chairman will be held at the next meeting which will take place on Tuesday, Nov. 9, at 1.00 p.m. in the Chemistry Building.

The program for the year is to be of great interest to the members of the Ch. I.C. With movies, field trips and a smoker being planned, the executive expects to give the members a broader view of the chemical world.

Nominations for vice-chairman are open to all third year chemists. If all those who have filled out applications for membership in this chapter would hand them in to H. H. Yates, Hal Chapman, or Jim Murdoch it would help the executive to arrange the program.

Deans Say Six Students Not Admitted

None of the six students of the Beaver Brigade who were in Arts and Science will be readmitted to the University, it was learned from Dean Fieldhouse last night. Prof. Fieldhouse indicated that the students, who only returned from Europe early this week, had missed the last possible day of registration.

"The regulation of the University exist; it is my duty to enforce them," he said. He declined to make any further comment.

Meanwhile three other McGill students who returned at the same time have been readmitted, one into engineering, one into the School of Social Work, and one as a Partial student. The six other students from Arts and Science plan to remain in town a few days awaiting a final decision upon their case.

"We did everything in our power to try and get back in time," said Dorothy Ing, who last year was a third year Arts student and in the Red Wings. "Most of the group did not even go to Yugoslavia, when they heard that they might not get back by Registration Day." Dorothy herself flew to Montreal from New York, and arrived here Tuesday evening.

Four of the six remained seven weeks in Hungary with the majority of the group, as soon as the change in their sailing date was announced. During this time they did not travel, as they were engaged almost exclusively in arranging to return home in time. Finally these students were able to book passage with the Polish ship Sobieski, which docked here in Montreal on Tuesday. This was within a few hours of the arrival of the two others from New York, whither they had sailed on the Yugoslav ship Radnik.

"We realize that legally we are at the University's mercy," said George Neupiel, another of the students involved. "However we wrote several letters to inform the University of our difficulties. We hoped that they might recognize these extenuating circumstances, all of which were beyond our control."

Sociology Club Addressed by Prof. Hughes

Prof. Everett C. Hughes, former faculty member, was guest speaker at the first meeting of the McGill Sociological Society which was held yesterday noon at Moyse Hall. Dr. Hughes read excerpts from his diary-records of his recent stay in Germany, where, as one of a group of six American professors, he conducted a seminar and lectured to the students in the Faculty of Social Sciences at the University of Frankfurt.

Dr. Hughes pointed out that at present there is in Germany a great urge on the part of the students to quickly acquire educational means whereby they may be assured of some financial income. He went on to state that the professors are either quite aged or lack the necessary enthusiasm to inspire their students.

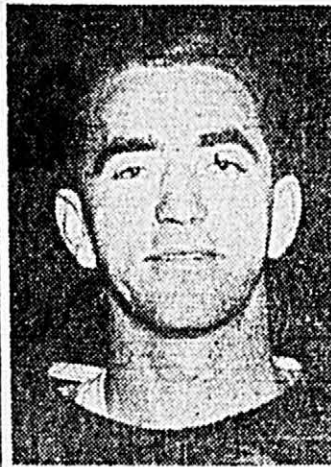

Building facilities are such that lectures are conducted with everyone wearing overcoats, and an occasional shower of plaster trickling down their necks. The mass internal migration of the people from the Eastern to the Western Zone of Occupied Germany has brought great pressure to bear upon the already overworked facilities offered by the British and American officials.

During Dr. Hughes' seminar, history was made when the Anthropological students met for the first time with the Sociological group. Until this time there had been a complete segregation of the units comprising the Faculty of Social Sciences.

After a brief question period the meeting was adjourned.

Red Squad Meet at Toronto

DAGGETT AND HACKETT

Two of McGill's Redmen heading for the Varsity Bowl are flying wing Lorne Daggett (left) and halfback Dave Hackett. The former has been a tower of strength defensively this season, after being out with an early injury. Hackett, the fastest man on the McGill team, has been a bright light on the offense.

McGill's Lineup Will Show Changes Tomorrow in Tilt

E. C. Knowles
Student Counsellor

By SEYMOUR COHEN

It is with grim determination to avenge last week's stinging defeat at the hands of Toronto that the McGill Redmen enter Varsity Stadium tomorrow afternoon. And they won't be alone on the trip. By the looks of the crowd of McGill students flocking down to Toronto by bus, train, car and foot (hitch-hiking, that is) it can't be said that McGillites are letting their team down when the sticks are pointing in that direction. There hasn't been a rush like this for a good many years, of fellows and gals out to make as much noise as possible every time the referees raise both their hands above their shoulders in favor of the Redmen. Not only this, but, win or lose, you'll probably be sure to see the Toronto goalposts parading along St. Catherine street next week supported by a gang of howling McGill students.

But Coach Vic Obeck is not relying on determination alone for this all important tilt. There will be no less than five new faces in the McGill lineup. Up from the Intermediate "A" team are Shorty Fairhead, who was a regular member of last year's Senior squad, Johnny Birkett, Bill Cave, Bobby Duford and Terry Rogers.

CHANGES MADE

Obeck is sticking to his system of two separate backfields for offense and defense, but there is a slight change in the names of the players who will fill the latter slot. There'll be Fairhead at quarterback, Daggett (who has been a tower of strength in warding off the opposing teams thus far), at flying wing, Birkett at fullback and Duford and Biewald playing halfback. The offensive backfield will again consist of Robillard masterminding in the quarterback slot, Daggett at flying wing, Johnny Hall playing fullback and the reliable Murray Hayes and Dave Hackett (our $50,000 man) at halfback.

On the front line will be almost the same faces as took the field in the last three starts. Pennock, Al Mann and Marvin Melowitz are all suffering from minor injuries obtained in last week's game, but this won't bother the boys much and they'll still be plowing through and pulling down Cummings before he lets go with those long, floater passes which have made him famous.

Murray Hayes, who always runs as if a flock of bears were chasing him, has had a slight cold the last few days, but he'll be in there tomorrow's opening whistle. Birkett is another Redman who suffered slight injuries this past week, but who'll be fighting every inch of the way to the Toronto goal line in the big Varsity Bowl.

PASS DEFENCE

A good part of this week's practices were based on developing a pass defence and the Obeckmen are sure they have it down pat. These practices have been taking place at 6.30 in the morning so that the boys could train in the daylight instead of under the ares. The pass offence also came in for some touching up to try and roll up a score against the Varsitylinians tomorrow.

So much for pre-game speculation and remember the more the merrier, so let's see a large group heading for Toronto today to watch our senior team run the home-owners into the ground of Varsity Stadium.

Dawson Hillel Hold Opening Meeting

On Wednesday night, the first meeting of Hillel at Dawson was held. After a few introductory remarks by Rabbi Cass, the agenda proceeded with the election of officers.

Elected to guide Dawson Hillel through the next term were, Cy Rosen, president; Norm Kipnis—First Vice-President, Tony Shine—Second Vice-President, Malca Tobman—the only Miss in Dawson Hillel—Secretary, and Alex Mayers—treasurer.

After the voting, refreshments were served, and the meeting was called to a close.

ROOM FOR RENT

Large, bright room with likeable Westmount family. 15 minutes by bus; all meals provided, $60 a month. Phone DE 2204, evenings, and ask for "George".

Dawson Politicians Elect Term Officers

The Dawson Political Forum has reformed after a lapse of one year. At a general meeting held last night, A. Papsdopoulos was elected president and P. Melas, W. Donohue, X. Weiss were elected as vice-president, secretary, and treasurer, respectively.

Plans were made to invite speakers representing the various political clubs on the campus for one of the first forums.

Law Debators Triumph Over Medical Team

The faculty of Law defeated the faculty of Medicine yesterday in the second interfaculty debate of the year. Ted Hugessen and Cuz Curran represented the victors. The affirmative and losing team consisted of Jon Ballon and Gorman Hanrahan. The resolution was "That a Medical Education is of More Value to the Community than a Legal Education."

The winning debaters argued that in ancient history Law figured more prominently than Medicine, which only began to develop after the Industrial Revolution. They also brought out that the community is dependent on its system of law for maintenance and well being, whereas medicine is occupied only with the needs of the individual. Furthermore, socialized medicine was only achieved in England through the efforts of social legislation, thus proving that Law supercedes and guides Medicine in benefiting the community.

The medicals argued for the superiority of bone-sawing over shysterism on the grounds that lawyers must be born, and it is the doctors that bring them into the world. Another point the losers forwarded was that if the general health of the public were not maintained, law and civilization in general would disintegrate.

Elections Give Majority to Wood, Green

Keith Eddy, Chairman of the Arts & Science Organization Committee and Chief Returning Officer for yesterday's elections, announced that light voting gave Lillian Wood the position of Vice-President of Four Year Arts & Science and Rosamund Green the position of Secretary of Third Year.

Close Voting

Results showed close voting in the fourth year ballot giving Lillian Wood a four vote victory over opponent Ros Cohen; 46 for Wood.

The third year voting showed a decided victory for Green over Joan Lunney; 41 for Green and 11 for Lunney.

Newman Club Addressed By Father Ledit

The first of a series of lectures presented by the Newman Club was held in the Union Ballroom at 8.15 this evening. The meeting was conducted by the president, Eric Barry, who turned the meeting over to Father Ledit who is giving the series of lectures entitled "The Techniques of Communism."

The lectures will be held every Tuesday night at the same hour in the ballroom and all interested are welcome.

Father Ledit is a noted French clergyman who has spent a great deal of time travelling and studying the threat of Communism. He opened the lecture by relating methods of Communist propaganda, emphasizing the danger of "seemingly innocent interpretations which underlie the surface reveal poisonous accusations and distortions of fact."

Discusses Labor

The question of the labor class being drawn into the Communist web was then discussed. Father Ledit pointed out that the Communists are agitators, and not the actual laborers.

He noted that the reason workers organize into unions is that they seek stability. It is not, he said, a reflection of acceptance of communist ideology.

Father Ledit suggested that the communistic groups, having failed to organize the peasants to revolution, are now directing their efforts to the workers to achieve a similar end.

Father Ledit announced that he planned to develop this theme, bringing it up to the present time, in a series of further lectures.

The meeting concluded with a question period.

G. R. Sorrenti Heads Dawson Social Season

By BERT BERLIN

Now that all the electioneering is over, the students at Dawson are anticipating a record social season with Mr. G. Roy Sorrenti at the helm. They are looking forward to the smokers, Barn Dances, informal Dances, as well as educational and entertaining movies, which Mr. Sorrenti promised in his election platform.

The first event will be the Alumni Dance on November 5. This affair had its origin with Professor Em. Orlick, who thought that it would be a fine idea if a dance would take place at which all ex-Dawsonites would be present. The admission will be $1.00 per person, which will include refreshments and a good time. For Dawsonites, there will be an all time reduction with the cost amounting to only $0.75 per person. The music will be supplied by the "Westernaires," one of Montreal's most popular bands.

Of course, before the big dance, Dawson will have its usual Friday Night Movie. Three shows are shown weekly at Dawson, on Tuesday, Friday and Saturday. The committee in charge of these shows are planning to bring top line attractions, which will satisfy the students. In order to facilitate this (Continued on Page 4.)

Mme. Casgrain Advocates Social Reforms

The high cost of living which is undermining the morale of all was claimed by Mme. Therese Casgrain, at the McGill C.C.F. club, to be a grave issue which should be fought by the young people of today. Mme. Casgrain, National Vice-President of the C.C.F., believes that youth, with its enthusiasm, aggressiveness and ideas is a powerful weapon and she urged her listeners to take up the fight for social security for all. She stressed the need to break down the many obstacles that hinder the solution of social problems and cause inefficiency in the accomplishment of social reforms.

The speaker explained that "equal pay for equal work" is not yet evident today and that young people should strive to help abolish the practice of paying lower salaries where women are employed as this policy naturally has an effect on the family budget.

Criticizes C. of C.

Mme. Casgrain criticized the text of speeches made by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and attacked what she termed big business government administration.

She concluded by saying that she hoped that her audience would shoulder the responsibility that faces them in these troubled times and realize that their youth is a tremendous asset, which should carry them far in the field of social reform.

Mme. Casgrain was largely responsible for obtaining equal voting rights for women in 1940 in this province. Besides the position she now holds in the C.C.F., Mme. Casgrain is an active member in numerous welfare organizations.

This first open meeting of the year which was held at 5.00 p.m. in the New Room of the Union, was chaired by the club's president, Sam Freedman. The guest speaker, Mrs. Casgrain, was introduced by Fay Rodriguez and was thanked in French by Peter Scott.

A short discussion was held before the adjournment of the meeting.

Social Service Tour Of Welfare Centers

Tomorrow afternoon the Social Service Committee of the McGill C.C.F. Club will sponsor a Social Service Tour. Students who are interested in the Tour will meet at the Union at 1.30 p.m.

The students assembled will be separated into several groups, each going on a tour of its own, visiting various community centers in the city. After the Tour, at 4.30 p.m. in the Union, Capt. O. Pelletier, Chief of the Delinquency Prevention Squad of the Montreal Police Force, will address the participants of the Tour.

The places that will be visited are Wexdale House, a boys' home; Crescent House, a girls' counselling center; Griffintown Club, a community center; St. Columba House and the Optimists' Boys' Club.

Unmentionables Cause Financial Difficulty

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 21.—(CUM)—The controversial item of bloomers for the Queen's cheerleaders (they have to be three different colors for the various sets-of-three cheerleaders) was finally resolved at a recent meeting of Queen's student council. It was decided to vote $25.00 to the cheerleaders' funds as petty cash for the purchase of the various-colored panties and various other essential articles.

"Crucial" Game in Toronto

Students on the campus have now experienced the complete gamut of emotions. Elated and dejected following the success and failure of the senior team, football followers are presently in a somewhat of an uncertain position. This does not imply, however, that moral support of any kind has been withdrawn from our intercollegiate representatives.

"You cannot keep a good team down" is the talk currently heard around Old McGill, following the 41-0 defeat absorbed by the Redmen last week. Praise from the press and elsewhere was one of the factors which contributed to the over-confident mental attitude of last week. In addition, the McGill team was faced with a Toronto aggregation that "was ready to explode," in the exact words of their coach, Bob Masterson.

Hard-driving teams have come from behind, and there is no reason to believe that our McGill crew will not accomplish an abrupt about-face. The hackneyed term "crucial," fully describes the importance of tomorrow's game at Toronto. Second place, and possibly a championship play-off hinge on the outcome.

Regardless of the results, in terms of victory or defeat, no group will fail to support to the highest extent, a team that displays drive and sportsmanship. In the final analysis, these are the important characteristics which are to be gained from the sport. To learn to play fairly and cleanly, to be able to cope with success and failure, are the attributes which do not come off with the football equipment, to be placed aside.

Departing from what may be considered a minor digression, we firmly believe that the Redmen will be difficult to beat from here on in.

For Your Library

FATHER. By Sarah Campion, Wm. Collins and Sons, 241 pages, $3.50.

This is an enchanting domestic portrait of the historian G. G. Coulton by his eldest daughter. This fiery medievalist was that of the excited poem of Hilaire Belloc. This biography shows him to be as fiery in the home when a principle was at stake as in the cloistered halls of Cambridge, for Miss Campion is beguilingly frank about her parent.

Remote and ineffectual Don
That dared attack my Chaeleston

But although 'a cussed Coulton' and often 'gay ill to live with', G.G.C. (as his pupils called him) was one of those rare persons who never really grow old; whose delights in beauty and novelty at no time fade, and whose spirit in defending a belief is always youthful and so often temperate. A great lover of his native England he could with ease settle down in a far country. Mangoes, sunsets, and a stray cat called Alfred made him happy in South Africa when he was in his seventies; squirrels, irresponsible students and errand boys on bicycles, and a social whirl gave zest to his stay in Toronto (as a visiting professor) when he was past eighty.

He had a tremendous joy of living that is admirably illustrated by the lively delight with which, at the age of nearly eighty, he bought a watch with a thirty year guarantee. Extracts from his letters and some amusing sketches which he would often enclose with his correspondence, attest to an ever-present sense of humour.

The appreciation of the scholar will come later; this is the very happy story of the man and the very nicest tribute to his memory.

(By way of a footnote here is something written by G. G. C. during his sojourn at the University of Toronto, which should appeal particularly to McGill students: As to Queen's, Cody very kindly told me Toronto had only been waiting till I should escape from the healthy rule that no active member of the staff should ever have an Hon. Degree. It would be even more welcome if they could decree that no history pupil should get his B.A. until he had learned legible handwriting.) B. S.

THE AMERICANS. By Geoffrey Gorer, Wm. Collins and Sons, 211 pages, $3.50.

To paraphrase Oscar Wilde, the theme of this book may well be that the American is a man who knows the price of money, but not the value of it.

All those who like myself came to meet the American really for the first time during the war, and thought that they mistook emotional egalitarianism for equality, license for freedom, and that they condemned as a snob or as hostile to them anyone who preferred reading in a train compartment to talking with them, will possibly find the explanation in this volume.

Geoffrey Gorer is an Englishman. Before the reader objects "I thought so" may I add that he has been living and travelling throughout the United States for some ten years, since he first studied anthropology under Dr. Margaret Mead. In addition he has been honoured by the Rockefeller Foundation and practiced psychology as a member of the Institute of Human Relations of Yale University. So much for his qualifications then.

Mr. Gorer draws the characteristics of the American people in a broad bold picture and his attempts to give meaning to the seeming paradoxes meet often with success. Indeed one American student told me that it was like having a door opened to him. There is the almost neurotic dependence for liberty on a weak government, which causes the American to view with incredible suspicion the stated ambition of a man to have a political career. To believe that one must be free to develop morally is one thing but to reject all authority as morally detestable is another, quite anarchic, but it is this view of authority which permeates all social relations between Americans.

The most amazing chapter for me was the one entitled Love and Friendship. I can understand the man who throws over an attractive mistress for a more attractive one, but I have never understood the mentality of the Don Juan who went about seducing women, irrespective of their charms, just for the sport of it. The Americans, if Mr. Gorer is correct, are even more "unnatural" in their behaviour towards members of the opposite sex than the Don Juan. "Dating" is merely the opportunity for the boy and girl to spend the evening together in which they enhance each other's self-esteem and demonstrate their skill in parrying one another's "line." The seriousness, concentration and ingenuity which mark a competitive game like chess are characteristic of the game. Indeed the only way in which the American practice of love and friendship is distinct from the game of chess is that in the successful date there is no loser. The "draw" inspires the protagonists to cross pawns again.

P. K. S.

NO MAN AN ISLAND, by George Whalley, Clarke, Irwin and Co., $1.50.

Poetry from so close a Canadian as the Assistant Professor of English in Bishop's University should in itself attract the attention of McGill students. Moreover those who are oppressed by the occasional obscurantism of modern poets will find, as did the reviewer, something pleasant in these intimate vignettes.

"And memory fills the white spaces between the words lines thoughts entries."

Whitley does not seem to believe that poetry should claim for itself significance above the intimate level. When on occasion he attempts a major poem it is hardly more than a brittle anthology of unsynthesized thoughts. We only find an organic quality in his small poems, where friendly images and gentle details are portrayed with effective balance. I am afraid he has a tendency to bleed away the strength of his strongest lines in what is really good explication prose. It seems sometimes that he is a little checked by his creative moments, so that he stops and re-surveys. This does not lead to great poetry.

Though most of his poetry is distinctly personal, it is undeniably written with due consideration for the reader. In this way he succeeded in arousing some sympathy in me for his little scenes, which transcend my appreciation of his descriptive delicacy. Whitley achieves poetry within his own terms of reference:

"Here is no pattern, here no tissue of meaning; but guttering candle-flame of memory that leap, and steady a moment, and evanesce in the dark rooms of unremembered time."

P.D.S.

THE DOOR OF THE CAVE by Joseph McCulloch, Wm. Collins and Sons, 371 Pages, $3.25.

This book is a pleasant surprise to one who has read a fair amount of recent English religious literature and has become accustomed to the trotting out of neo-orthodox theological theory in a popularized form, e.g. in the C. S. Lewis manner. Joseph McCulloch is obviously a man who has felt quite painfully the conflict between theology and practice, especially in the Anglican Church, and who recognizes also the degradation of our materialistic civilization.

The book describes the intellectual and emotional progress of a group of middle-class English people who met to make a dramatic presentation of the crucifixion and resurrection of Jesus Christ as it is written in the Gospels. In the process of rehearsing and planning their production these people discussed in quite a searching way the fundamentals of the Christian Faith. The conclusions that McCulloch draws from these discussions are less interesting than the many insights attained in the process of reaching them. A sample of these might be quoted: "An orthodox believer in the Apostles' creed does not become a disturbing factor in his environment until he believes in the truth behind the Apostles' creed. . . The threat of religious faith is always most felt by the religiously orthodox. . . It is no coincidence that the religious genius always emerges from an orthodox environment. . ."

One of the valuable emphases made by the author is an anti-dualistic one. He shows that the belief in an "after-life" is essentially unchristian while a true understanding of the essential unity of the temporal and eternal realms is basic to the Faith. The apostasy of the Church from this true doctrine has opened the door to the Greek theory of the immortality of the soul, and at the same time has denied the truth of the Incarnation, that truth which is the proof that the temporal world is not an obstruction to, but the only real matrix of eternal life.

This is a point at which to begin to be critical. Realizing the "materialism" of the Incarnation, McCulloch deserves it, in effect, for an idealistic philosophy of the imagination. "We must enter into the imagination of Christ" as small groups of Christians and try to apply this imagination to their lives.

The Margaret Webster Company Presents . . .

Macbeth

By Leonard R. Ashley

"I would applaud thee to the very echo,
That should applaud again." Act V, Sc. 3.

In Macbeth the mood of horror and stark tragedy, of "murder most foul" pervades the whole play. The key note is struck at the outset by the weird sisters and the sense of impending doom inherent in an unnatural world (where "Fair is foul, and foul is fair") is maintaining throughout. Margaret Webster's greatest achievement in this production lies in the fact that this mood of violence and terror, of dread and doom is sustained from first to last.

First honors go to Joseph Holland, who lends to the tragic figure of Macbeth a stately authority and dignity. He plays the ambitious and resolute thane admirably, and at the end of the play, when "supped full with horrors" and deceived by "the equivocation of the fiend that lies like truth," he fights against on, half courageous, half in fury against the fates that have betrayed him, his portrayal is truly excellent.

Carol Goodner played Lady Macbeth as the dignified, determined, and unscrupulous character she is and turned in a very creditable performance. The sleep-walking scene and that with Banquo's ghost showed her at her best, capable of convincing emotion.

David Lewis was exceptionally good as Macduff, especially in the scenes where he hears of Duncan's death and, later, of the murder of his wife and children. William Tregoe's Duncan we "every inch a king" and kindly too—which is necessary if his murder is to have its full significance.

The Porter, as played by Carl Don, was genuinely humorous, and that is after all the greatest compliment that can be paid. Frederick Rolf, as Seyton, was the perfect servant.

The figure of Malcolm was not sufficiently regal as Alfred Ryder played it, and this was not entirely due to the youth which it required. It "stands not within the prospect of belief."

The scenes with the witches were simply staged. The first would have been much more effective had less light been used. The second was (Continued on Page 4.)

A note of interest to Town Hall fans. If you miss the regular broadcast on Tuesday evenings, you can hear a re-broadcast over station CFCF Sunday, 3 p.m.

Listeners to CBM have found the key to pleasant diversion these Tuesday evenings by lending an ear to Morgantime, heard between 8 and 8.30 p.m. The program is all harmony. Geoffrey Waddington conducts the orchestra. Gisele sings the songs and the Alouette Quartet vocalizes in its own inimitable way.

Through the courtesy of station CJAD McGill radio has the use of studios from 8.15 to 10.15 two evenings per week. Tuesday evenings will be concerned with the Student-Professor Debate programs (more information at a later date) and Thursday evenings will be reserved for Radio Workshop rehearsals. This most generous co-operation on the part of CJAD is of inestimable value to McGill's growing radio activity.

Many readers will recall that delightful musical comedy "Roberta" which appeared on local screens some few years ago. The radio version starring Jan Clayton and Eddie Bracken will be the next presentation of the Railroad Hour on the ABC broadcast Monday, Nov. 1, at 8 p.m.

The question of psychology on radio programs is generally an incidental item in the course of some detective story. It is refreshing to know that there is at least one program (and a short one at that) that is concerned with psychology as the main item. "What Makes You Tick" is the name of this offering. Two psychologists from the American Psychological Association are on the program. Your scribe saw a March of Time film which dealt in part with this program. May be worth tuning in, only difficulty is that it is aired on Thursday morning at 11.45 till noon. It comes over the ABC network.

The Saturday CFCF inaugurates

a new program on university news. The time is 10.20 to 10.30 a.m. and the script is written by McGill's Bob Perry, a news desk editor on the Daily. Good luck to Bob on his new assignment.

Canadian radio welcomed another of its familiar favorites back to the air last Sunday afternoon (5 to 5.30 p.m.) Singing Stars of Tomorrow is heard on CBC Trans-Canada network. During the summer, audition teams have been touring the country from coast to coast, selecting the most promising talent from young people who have asked to appear on Singing Stars.

The next stage of this selection or narrowing down goes on during the fall and winter. Judges in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg, and Vancouver listen each Sunday afternoon's broadcast to decide which contestants will appear in the semi-finals that will wind up the Singing Stars of Tomorrow season next spring.

Letters to the Editor

Daily Red-baiting

The Editor, McGill Daily.
Sir,—What is most disturbing about this S.L.C. "cause celebre" is not the original issue of "Who Shall Head the S.L.C.?", because this is now sub judice in the Student Executive Council where it can be expected to result in a fair decision. The most unhappy feature of the affair is that it has become a red-baiting issue in the McGill Daily. Over the last three years the Daily has succeeded in maintaining a dignity and integrity which prevented it taking on the dominant anti-communist hysteria of the metropolitan press. Therefore, it has been quite shocking to read the front page of the Daily in the last two days, on which both the slide, pseudo-subtle, and the undisguised types of journalistic red-baiting have been used. I refer to the whole column "These Hallowed Halls" on Wednesday, the 27th, and the headline "S.L.C. Executives in Open Session Deny Reds Front", in today's Daily. The "news value" of yesterday's meeting is not to be denied, but this type of headline, because of its associations, is a most prejudicial influence over the minds of student readers and its use represents a degeneration in Daily editorial policy. This is especially so in view of the questionable nature of the "executive" mentioned in the headline. In fact, one would have thought that the Daily, knowing the matter is under consideration before the S.E.C., would have been extra-careful in editing material concerning it.

"Character assassination" is apparently not being confined to the U.S.A. Thomas Committee, and I can do nothing but make a personal protest against its appearance in McGill.

JOHN ROWE,
Theology I.

The Sports Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,
I read with amusement your write up of the trouncing administered by Ottawa University to the McGill Seconds. In this account, your newspaper mentioned the Ottawa team as "... the unbeaten Capital City crew is a strong aggregation. . . etc."

To correct this misinformation for your information, may I point out that on October 11th our (the Queen's) Intermediates went out to Ottawa for the Intermediate opener and defeated Ottawa University by a score of 24-3. This was an official league game to count in the standings. You will doubtless want to bring your records up to date in this connection.

Yours very truly,
D. B. DAVIDSON.

McGill Indians Will Play Royal Military College on Saturday

INDIANS

The Royal Military College Cadets from Kingston tackle the McGill Indians in Molson Stadium on Saturday at 2 o'clock. This marks the first time since the cessation of hostilities that the Cadets have played football in Montreal.

There is only a freshmen class of about 100 students at RMC this year. This means that the team has had to be selected from a relatively small group. However, the squad is reported to be powerful, having wrecked considerable havoc among other football crews in the Kingston district.

The Cadet Crew has been scheduling only exhibition games this year but intends to get back into regular competition next year. They will campaign in the Eastern CIAU Intermediate League. This conference did not function during the war years but was revived this season. The Indians play in this league along with Ottawa U. Queens, Carleton and Loyola.

McGill's line-up has not been announced. Raising by the Senior team has forced Coach Sandy Ellis to do considerable reshuffling. Obeck is using five of his players in the McGill-Toronto tilt.

METEORS

Coach Bill Davies Meteors face MacDonald College at Molson stadium this afternoon in an Intermediate 'B' tilt. The game is one of the most important for the Redmen because a win will vault them into undisputed possession of second place. MacDonald has won all of its three starts, McGill has won one and lost one.

Boostered by a number of newcomers Coach Bill Davies will field the strongest Intermediate team to see action this year. The Green and Gold are not to be taken lightly after drubbing McGill in their first game by the score of 23 to 6. Leading the attack for the Meteors are halfbacks Dorland, Wilson and Wagner. The quarterback slot will be capably handled by Gene Robillard, Cameron, Kiselius, Givens and Dugan compose the Red front wall. Others to see action in the starting line-up include Dannaher, flying wing; Knubley, centre; Henderson and D. Wilson, ends.

The league standings as of today are as follows.

	P	W	L	T	PT
MacDonald	3	3	0	0	9
McGill	2	1	1	0	4
Dawson	2	0	2	0	2
Bishops	3	0	3	0	0

HOCKEY PRACTICE

The hockey team will practice tonight, Friday, Oct. 29 from 8-9 p.m. in the Forum. The practice is being held specially to give Dawson students a chance to try-out for the team but the rest of the squad, as informed, will be there.

VARSITY'S VERSATILE VETERANS

If the Redmen are to stop Toronto they will have to hold these three men as well as the more publicized Cummings to Danlychuk passing duo. At left is Ted Toogood, a swivel-hipped running half and Tom Waldon, another driving back, is shown on the right. Ian McMillan is in the centre. He plays on the tricky, mouse-trapping Varsity line.

Dawson Plays Bishop Crew In Home Game

Dawson's football squad meets the Bishop's College crew in a local Intermediate Intercollegiate football tilt at 2:00 p.m. in the Dawson Bowl. This is the second week in succession that the two teams have met.

Last week the Dawson crews, sparked by the spectacular running ability of Totsky ran roughshod over the Lennoxville team to run up a 26-0 score. If the Red and Blue wins tomorrow they will have a chance to tie Macdonald for the league leadership.

The Dynamoes may be minus the services of their star quarterback, Lauren. In this case the coach, Jerry O'Donahue will call on Seth Grossmith to fill the gap.

In addition, La Fond, who has been playing bang-up ball for the last few weeks on the injured shelf. None the less the backfield has plenty of punch. The 1-2-3 combination of Totsky, Kennedy and Gray is intact.

The forward wall will be at full strength with Parsons, McGibbon, Everender, Quincey and Barwick flanking Jack Shulman, the pivot man.

Dawson Squad Meets Champlain in Soccer

Dawson's Soccer squad will play host to the Champlain crew on Saturday morning. This is the second game of a home-and-home series. Champlain took the first contest, played on their home grounds, by a 2-1 score.

Last week Dawson battled to a scoreless draw with Macdonald. The team hardly looked like the same squad that dropped the close encounter to Champlain the week before. They played a fine game with their passes clicking perfectly.

The Red and Blue squad has been prepping all week for this game. It is the last one before beginning league play, and should give a good indication as to how helping put the team in shape.

Dawson will present the same team that faced Macdonald last week. The squad is being managed by Derek Phillips and Ray Maudin with Bill Gree and Seyers-Charlton, stand-outs on last year's team handling the coaching chores. Ken Bullock, player-manager last season, is not residing at Dawson, but has been put the team in shape.

DID YOU KNOW...

That Herbie Westman kicked nine rouges when McGill defeated Western 9-0 for the intercollegiate title in 1938.

That Queen's has not scored a single point on their home field against Western in the past two seasons.

That the McGill Intermediate B team has not lost a game this year. They have won all their league and exhibition games.

That when Queen's beat Toronto 8-6 two weeks ago the Gaels only made six first downs to the twenty-two Toronto piled up.

Reds to Battle Varsity for Soccer Title

McGill's soccer team plays the final and deciding game this Saturday for the Intercollegiate championship. The Redmen must win by at least 3 goals to win the title as they dropped the first game of the home-and-home, total-goal series by a 4-2 score in Toronto last Friday.

The Redmen put up a stiff battle against the Blues. They carried the play in the first half but were unable to score.

The team has been training hard for this week's battle. However practicing has been somewhat difficult at Molson Stadium as there are no goal posts. It will be remembered the certain spirited Varsity students carried them off after last week's football game.

Training finished off with a match against North End, a member of the local soccer league. The game ended in a 1-1 draw.

Elvira Ghost of Blithe Spirit Hides Identity

Who's Elvira, that's the rub. Answer soon.

THE PLAYERS CLUB.

For the time being at least, McGill Students will not be told the identity of Elvira.

The Daily was able to ascertain, without too much difficulty that Elvira is the name of Noel Coward's ghost, in his farcical comedy, "Blithe Spirit," to be presented next month by the Players Club. But the identity of the actress who is to play the part of Elvira remains a closely guarded secret.

Rehearsals have been going on behind closed doors. A Daily reporter who had been sent to see if he could ascertain the identity of the female lead was unceremoniously told that he would eventually find the answer in the Daily.

Why the Players' Club is keeping this a secret is unknown. In the meantime we ask, along with everybody else, WHO IS ELVIRA?

Dawson Cagers Accept Bid to Senior M.B.L.

By JACK ABRAMS

Coach Ned Naves accepted yesterday that the Dawson basketball team has accepted an invitation from Al Irwin, Secretary of the M.B.L. to enter the Senior M.B.L.

This invitation was extended by Secretary Irwin immediately after he had witnessed the brilliant display by the Dawson quintet against the mighty Grenadier Guards on Monday night in which the Red and Blue were edged out by a score of 33-28.

Dawson's invitation into the Golden Ball Tournament which had previously been announced as accepted, has after due consideration of the amount of time required away from studies been refused.

In an interview yesterday Coach Naves stated that his team had decided to accept the invitation into the Seniors only on the condition that at least four of their games could be played on the St. Johns court. The reason given for this was that the team wanted to play at least some of their league tilts on a court that would be readily accessible to the home fans. Al Irwin assured the Dawson Coach

McGill Rugger Battle Toronto This Saturday

Prof. Keirstead's Rugger Redmen meet Toronto in the final game of this year's home and home series for the Intercollegiate title at 1:30 p.m. in Molson Stadium tomorrow. Last week in Toronto the squad fought hard and eked out a 6-5 victory.

The victory was due to strong defensive tactics, with which the Redmen maintained an early lead. The crowd hopes to gain the verdict tomorrow on the basis of their attack. They have the fastest and most menacing three-quarter line to take the field for McGill in many years.

The potentialities of this line were not realized last week due to a lack of weight on the scrum. The line-up has been changed to overcome this deficiency so the scrum should be in position to feed the ball to the three-quarter string both from the set-scrums and the line-outs.

Toronto won the title last year and will be driving hard to regain it. The game promises to be fast and open.

MCGILL LINE-UP

Forwards—McKell, Johnston, Mather, Fairweather (manager), Whittall, R. Morgan, Mallarbe, K. Morgan, Carruthers, Price.

Three Quarters—McMillan, Alexander, Scott, Tilden.

Full Back—McPherson. All those named are asked to meet the captain in the Currie Gymnasium dressing room at 1:00 p.m. on Saturday.

Round Table to Have Dr. Norris as Speaker

A jointly sponsored series of Round Table meetings by the B'Nai B'rith and Y.M.H.A., lasting for the entire 1948-49 program season, will begin this coming Tuesday night, November 2nd at 9:00 o'clock in the Lounge of the Y.M.H.A., 265 Mount Royal West. These meetings are a continuation of a series begun last year, featuring speakers on a variety of subjects.

Dr. K. E. Norris, principal of Sir George Williams College, since 1936, will be the first guest speaker. His topic, "It's never too Late," will be a discussion of Adult Education.

Dr. Norris received his Ph.D. in 1939 from McGill University. The Round Table Series will be held every Tuesday evening at 9:00 o'clock at the Y.M.H.A. A number of very fine speakers have already been booked for the series. The public is invited.

Mustangs May Tie Undefeated Record

The University of Western Ontario Mustangs undefeated in their last 25 games, will get a chance to tie one of the most honored records in Canadian football on Saturday when they play hosts to Queen's University at Little Stadium. And by a quirk of fate, they will be playing the present holders of the record.

From 1922 through 1925, the Gaels from Kingston won four consecutive Intercollegiate titles, and added three Grey Cups, and established an undefeated record of 26 games. The Mustangs have 24 and a tie in their last 25 league starts.

The Western victory began in 1939, when they won the first four consecutive Intercollegiate titles. After a five year layoff during the war, formal Intercollegate competition was resumed in 1945. The Mustangs won the synthetic championship that year, although the C.I.A.U. has not recognized it as official. They repeated in 1946.

If the Mustangs win the title this year, they will tie a league record for winning four consecutive championships, which is held tion to our daily lives. What completely escapes McCulloch and his group is that the materialism of the Incarnation demands a materialistic means of entering into Christ. The complete inadequacy of their conclusion is in direct proportion to the carelessness with which they treated the sacramental doctrines of the Church which supply just the material dialectical process of interaction between time and eternity which he was in search of. As a matter of fact he comes so near to the necessity for such a process, sometimes, that one is profoundly disappointed in reading further to discover that he has been sidetracked again into a discussion of the "imagination of Jesus"—his favorite topic. It might be appropriate to close with a quotation of one such remark, one which should cause all Christians to stop short and think awhile. . . . "Jesus demands that the world shall become relevant to him not as we demand, he to the world." J. G. R.

very well done indeed, particularly the apparitions.

In speaking of several of the individual performances we mentioned the word dignity. We do not wish to give the impression that the violence and excitement of Macbeth are lacking in this production. It is quite the reverse. The play is thrilling and terrifying, and the almost Elizabethan simplicity of its staging permits the action to flow on without hesitation.

This simple staging was necessary because it is Miss Webster's intention to tour with this production where the conveniences of an ordinary theatre are not always available. Rather than being a defect it is in this case a virtue for it focuses the attention on the thrilling action and the very moving performances of the actors.

Look... a shoe built specially for Basketball—

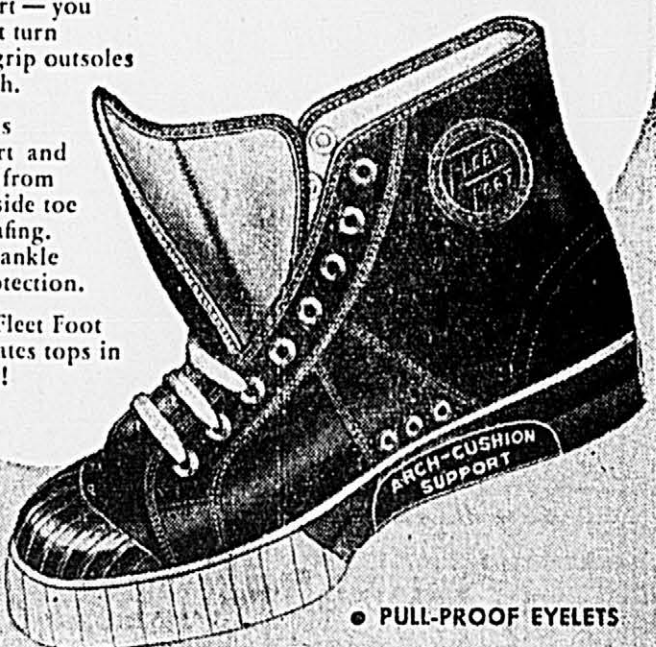

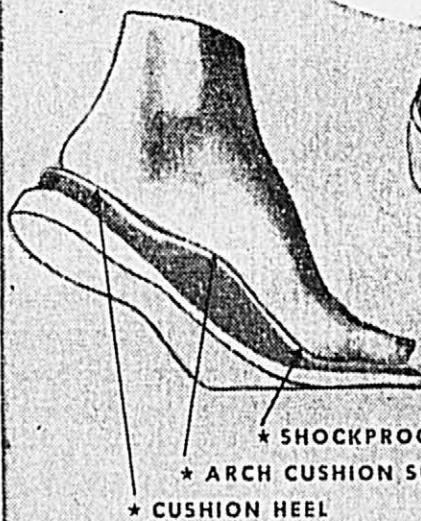

FLEET FOOT
THE SHOE OF CHAMPIONS!

Boy, it's a beauty—the Fleet Foot "Basketball"! Just snug your feet into that close fitting comfort. Feel the support you get, the spring in your step. Then try a quick start—you break like a shot! And, now a fast turn or sudden stop—those suction-grip outsoles grip the court, won't slip an inch.

Shockproof sponge insole, plus built-in arch cushion support and cushion heel, help keep feet from tiring. Patented smooth inside toe construction prevents chafing. Heavy toe bumper and ankle patch give added protection.

No wonder the Fleet Foot "Basketball" rates tops in any league!

- PULL-PROOF EYELETS
- SCIENTIFIC FOOT-FITTING LAST
- BREATHABLE UPPERS
- EXTRA WIDE, SHAPED FELT-LINED TONGUE
- SHOCKPROOF INSOLE
- ARCH CUSHION SUPPORT
- CUSHION HEEL

Molded, concave suction-grip outsole grips floor, won't slip.
